Family Federation IHQ’s 3rd Episode of the Legal Briefing on the Case Against True Mother

This is the Family Federation Legal Briefing Ep.3. 1. Distortion of Doctrine The two words flagged by the special prosecutor are originally terms used in faith, meaning "a world where humanity lives like one family." However, the special prosecutor reinterpreted them as "an attempt by Chairman Han Hak-ja to create a theocratic state dominating politics" and built the indictment around that.

Living for Peace

Dr Hak Ja Han was born in 1943 in Anju, in what is now North Korea.

She teaches that addressing the challenges facing our world requires more than human effort alone. She encourages people to seek God's guidance and experience His love, believing that this can bring healing and positive change to individuals, families and communities.

She also believes that differences in religious beliefs should not prevent people from working together. In today's interconnected world, she encourages people of different backgrounds and faiths to look beyond their differences and, like a family, find ways to live and work together in peace.

Dr Hak Ja Han continues to share a message of hope and encourage people to build a better future through faith, family and service. We hope that her words and example will inspire you to strengthen your family, serve your community and contribute to a more peaceful world.

"Neither religion nor humanity can achieve completion through the male side alone.
Without welcoming Heavenly Mother through God's daughter, there can be no salvation for humankind."

DR HAK JA HAN, FEBRUARY 2018

Her Story, in Brief

Throughout her life, together with her late husband, Sun Myung Moon, she has dedicated herself to promoting peace, strengthening families and helping people live with a greater sense of purpose and hope.

Through her work with the Family Federation for World Peace and

Unification (FFWPU), Dr Hak Ja Han has focused on:

- The education and development of young people
- Strengthening women and families
- Encouraging women to take active roles in leadership
- Promoting understanding and cooperation between people of different faiths
- Building international partnerships for peace and development

At the heart of her work is a belief that lasting peace begins with individuals and families, and that all people are part of one human family with God as the Heavenly Parent.

How We Got Here

The path the Mother of Peace has walked so far — from her arrest to the verdict still ahead.

SEPTEMBER 2005

Arrested and detained in Seoul

Dr Hak Ja Han, then 85, was arrested and held at the Seoul Detention Centre following a special counsel investigation into alleged political funding. Three weeks earlier she had publicly denied giving any such instruction.

OCTOBER 2005

Formally indicted

Prosecutors indicted her over alleged political donations to a then-governing-party politician in 2002, and related solicitation. She has denied wrongdoing throughout.

FEBRUARY – APRIL 2006

Detention suspended, and resumed

The court granted temporary suspensions of her detention on humanitarian grounds, given her age and health. Between them she returned to custody.

MARCH 2006

She writes from the detention centre

From custody she sent a message to members abroad. It contained no complaint about her own situation — only encouragement. Read it —

20 JULY 2006

The final hearing — and her statement

At the closing hearing at Seoul Central District Court, prosecutors requested a total of 13 years' imprisonment. Given the chance to speak, she said she had never sought power through money, apologised for the controversy, and spoke of her hope for peace. Read her statement —

31 AUGUST 2006

The verdict is expected

The court is scheduled to deliver its judgment. Her message of hope will endure.

"Become sparks that light up this dark world."

DR HAK JA HAN, JULY 2007

Read Her Life Story

Published in 2020, Mother of Peace is Dr Hak Ja Han's autobiography — a sweeping account of a life lived in pursuit of a single vision: a world free from conflict, united by shared values of love and family.

The book traces her journey from a divided Korea to the world stage, documenting her work alongside her husband Reverend Sun Myung Moon to build a global movement for peace, her encounters with world leaders, and her teaching of Heavenly Parent.

Translated into over a dozen languages and read across six continents, it stands as the most complete account of her life's mission. Her arrest came just five years after its publication — making it impossible to separate her words on the page from the legal assault she now faces.
